Sirs:

I had thought that you had set up on the website a forum to solicit comments regarding the Justice's settlement with Microsoft. If you have then you have made it exceedingly difficult to find because I cannot. That in itself is probably on comment on your desire to hear other opinions.

I would remind you that the Justice Department is here to insure that the laws are enforced to protect the people. With your proposed settlement with Microsoft you are not fulfilling this promise. It is obvious to everyone that this case went from a prosecution of the laws to one of political expediency. This is nothing more than a slap on the wrist to the biggest monopoly since Standard Oil and everyone knows it. The American people's only hope now with this issue is that the states will be immune from politics and do what they are paid to do, protect the people.

Thank you for reading my comments.
